Red Sox Honor Roll

The Boston Red Sox salute four of their players who have donned the olive drab of the United States Army in these times of strife. From President Thomas A. Yawkey and General Manager Edward T. Collins down through the entire organization, there is a feeling of pride and firm belief that these men who formerly wore the white and gray flannel uniforms of the Boston ball club will acquit themselves with honor and glory on the field of battle as they did on the field of sport.

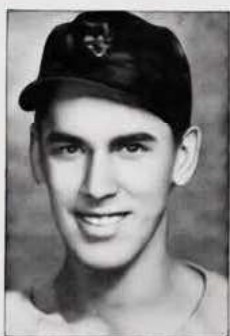

Private MICKEY C. HARRIS, Camp Rollins, Canal Zone, was the first regular member of the Sox to be called to the colors. Mickey, one of the most promising left-handers in the batting lineup a disappointing year and last season in 1941, was inducted into the army in October. Mickey was a catcher and lost 14 during 1941 but had an earned run average of 3.25, a record best of the Boston club. Harris led the Sox batter in strikeouts with 111 and got 56 hits on balls.

Private AL FLAIR, Battery C, 9th Batt., 3rd Regiment, F. A. R. C., Fort Belvoir, N. C., was inducted into the army in December. Flair, with Baltimore in the International League system, was looked upon as one of the leading candidates for first base in 1941 with the Boston club until Dixie Snodgrass won him. Flair made a big hit with Boston late in the last time he appeared in the lineup the latter part of 1941. With Baltimore, he batted .299.

Private EARL JOHNSON, Infantry Replacement Centre, Fort Roberts, Cal., was "claimed" by Little Sam on January 8 at San Jose, Calif. One of the best natural hitters in baseball, Johnson should keep up the morale of his battery with his dialect wit. The "Frank Merriell" of the Sox, Johnson joined from Class B to the majors and made good. A war time indisposition him stier a fine start in 1941 but restraints had retarded the trouble and Earl was being counted upon to be one of the acts of the Sox staff in '42.

Private LARRY POWELL, Headquarters Detachment, CASC 128, Fort Roberts, Cal., prominent left hander from Detroit, Cal., was a resister when the rest of the Sox were called. Powell was inducted last summer, after being drafted into the Pacific Coast League. With Louisville a short while before being sent to the States, he appeared in seven games, winning two and losing two. At Fort Dix, he had won two and last time before being called by the Army.
